

DAVID LIM

Leadership & Motivation

A highly inspiring speaker who goes beyond his own story of achievement and overcoming adversity to show us how to achieve effective leadership and high performance

DAVID LIM

about

David Lim is best known for leading the landmark first Singapore Everest Expedition in 1998, which succeeded in placing two members of the team at the summit. David went on to complete 70 more ascents, a fantastic achievement by any measure, but he did so after overcoming a rare, disabling nerve disorder which resulted from his first Everest expedition.

His come-back story was featured on the cover of Readers Digest magazine in 2001, reaching 35 million readers in 8 languages. David is a credentialed workshop leader, large-group facilitator and teambuilder. His leadership expertise has been widely profiled in The Wall Street Journal, and Singapore's The Straits Times newspaper. As a mountaineer, The Sunday Times described him as "unstoppable" after he summited his 7th virgin peak in 2012.

his experience

David is a CSP(Certified Speaking Professional), the first and only Singaporean to be conferred the highest designation for professionalism and consistent quality by the National Speakers Association and the Global Speakers Federation (GSF).

David goes well beyond being simply a motivational speaker; for over 20 years he has successfully delivered true gems of wisdom and advice to the business world in terms of how to effectively lead and motivate yourself and others, to face up to challenges, to negotiate with others and to ultimately achieve high performance.

He is the author of 3 books:

Mountain to Climb: The Quest for Everest and Beyond (1998)

Against Giants: The Life and Climbs of a Disabled Mountaineer (2003)

How Leaders Lead: 71 Lessons in Leading Yourself and Others (2011)

His clients include Walmart, Google, LinkedIn, Lego, Citibank, UBS, Roche, INSEAD Business School, Ministry of Finance, TATA Motors, AIA, Prudential, Hewlett Packard, AXA, Accenture, and many more
